

The Legend of Heroes: Trails from Zero launches on March 14, 2020

The Geofront is excited to announce The Legend of Heroes: Trails from Zero will be releasing on Saturday, March 14, 2020. Trails from Zero is a fully-localized mod of Falcom's Windows PC version of The Legend of Heroes: Zero no Kiseki. The mod is only compatible with a user-supplied Japanese copy of Zero for PC, which can be bought digitally from dlsite.com, or physically from falcom.shop or amazon.co.jp. The mod itself can be downloaded from geofront.esterior.net.

About the game:

Trails from Zero is the fourth game in the Trails series and the start of its second arc – colloquially known as the Crossbell arc. Zero takes place just months after Trails in the Sky and concurrently with Trails of Cold Steel. The game is set in the autonomous Crossbell State, located between Zemuria's two superpowers: the Erebonian Empire (setting of Cold Steel) and the Calvard Republic.

Lloyd Bannings, Elie MacDowell, Tio Plato, and Randy Orlando comprise the newly-formed Special Support Section of the Crossbell Police Department. Together, these four heroes will face the realities of Crossbell's seedy underbelly as they work to restore the CPD's damaged reputation with Crossbell's citizens. However, behind Crossbell's criminal underworld and political corruption lies an even more sinister conspiracy brewing since the Middle Ages. It will be up to the SSS to uncover the truth behind Crossbell's mysteries and get over the many barriers placed in front of them.

Key features:

Quality of Life Enhancements — Exclusive to the Geofront mod of Zero are several quality of life improvements never before seen in the Crossbell games, such as turbo mode, autosaves, and a message backlog. The mod also supports resolutions and frame rates higher than those in the base PC version and provides several fixes for bugs that were once present.

Classic Trails Combat with New Mechanics — Trails from Zero features the Trails series' timeless turn-based combat and original tactical orbment gameplay from Trails in the Sky. New to Zero are mechanics such as field attacks, Team Rush, and Combo Crafts.

An Immersive World — Learn the ins and outs of Crossbell City and the surrounding countryside. Unlike other Trails entries, the Crossbell games center around an urban hub. Players will come to know the city streets like the back of their hands, and are encouraged to get to know Crossbell's colorful NPCs.

The Trails You Know and Love — Trails from Zero is a localization made by some of the most ardent Trails fans in the world. Experience Zero at the same level of quality and lore consistency as the six officially-localized Trails games.

About Nihon Falcom

Falcom is a Japanese game developer founded in 1981, famous for creating story-rich RPGs and being the innovator of the action RPG. Its flagship titles include The Legend of Heroes series and the long-running Ys series. Falcom's games have a passionate fan base the world over, and have been released on a plethora of consoles and PC.

Trails is a sub-series of The Legend of Heroes that began in 2004 and will see its tenth entry in summer of 2020 with The Legend of Heroes: Hajimari no Kiseki.

About the Geofront

The Geofront is a group of fans dedicated to bringing unlocalized Falcom games to Western audiences at the highest possible quality. Right now, the team is focusing on Trails from Zero, the first in the pair of Crossbell games.

The team consists of a wide range of talented people, each contributing to the success of this demanding endeavor.

It is extremely important to stress that the Geofront's Trails from Zero project is based on the translation completed by the heroesoflegend.org team (Guren no Heya Kara, Flamethrower, Yangxu, and Zero Monkey).

The Geofront has been tasked with taking the base translation and editing it to a form that reaches the high standard set for Trails in the West. The Geofront's work could not have been done without the time and hard work put into the original translation.
